Kingfisher Bay Resort

As the first eco-tourist resort of its type in Australia, Kingfisher Bay Resort nestles seamlessly amongst the tree covered sand dunes & tropical island setting. This particularly stunning award winning design boasts both sea & rainforest views, while blending harmoniously with Fraser Island's sensitive ecological system.

As Fraser Island is World Heritage listed, the Resort was built to strict environmental guidelines to minimise its impact on the environment. The Resort is a two time Australian Tourism Award winner and proudly displays a distinctive Queensland style, which includes double storey, native timber construction designed to marry in with the natural landscape.

Kingfisher Bay Resort offers several types of accommodation, there are 152 hotel rooms, over 100 private villas and extensive group lodges. The rooms enjoy magnificent forest views, which can be appreciated from the generous private verandahs.

Additionally, the resort incorporates four magnificent swimming pools, restaurants, bars, a shopping village and a beauty and massage salon.

More recently GBA have been commissioned to look at additional designs including; another residential development, the relocation of the Sandbar Restaurant and day use area, an Art Gallery and an Interpretive Centre in conjunction with the University of the Sunshine Coast.

Fraser Island is a natural paradise with an abundance of native flora and fauna. Visitors can enjoy a huge variety of outdoor activities including sailing, fishing, swimming, beachcombing, bushwalking, four wheel driving and during specific months whale watching. It was only fitting to create an environmentally friendly resort enabling people to visit for years to come.

Kingfisher Bay Resort proves sensitive & clever eco - friendly design is achievable.
